COUNSELORS CHART WAY FORWARD FOR FUTA FEMALE STUDENTS

A call has been made to women to reposition themselves for the challenges in the society as home makers and builders. This call was made by the trio of Dr. (Mrs.) Ogunsuyi, Mrs. Olusanya and Mrs. Owele during an interactive session organized by the Guidance and Counseling Unit of the University for all female students held at the CCE Hilltop Auditorium.

The resource persons said because of the enormous domestic responsibilities of women in the home, there is a need to enlighten female students on how to combine and manage such responsibilities with their career so that they can become worthy leaders, astute business women and perfect career women.

Taking them through the rudiments of leadership, Dr (Mrs.) Ogunsuyi urged them to properly set their agenda at a tender age so as to achieve set goals. To achieve this, she said they must possess qualities like punctuality, truthfulness, courtesy and modesty among others. She also enjoined them to shun immodest dressing and uncontrolled emotions.

Addressing the ladies, Mrs. Olusanya warned them against involvement in illicit sexual relationships which can jeopardize their future dream as home builders, while Mrs. Owele encouraged them to work hard so as to complement their future husband's efforts. She said "a woman should not become liability to her husband. You must be skillful and keep yourselves abreast of global trends so as to break even".

In her remark, organizer of the programme, Mrs., Adejoke Koyejo of the Counseling Unit of CCE, thanked the speakers and urged the students to make the best use of the counsel received during the interaction.
