VC EMPHASIZES ZERO TOLERANCE FOR CRIME AS NEW CP VISITS FUTA

The Federal University of Technology, Akure (FUTA) has been described as a University with zero tolerance for antisocial and deviant behaviours. Speaking when he received the new Commissioner of Police, Ondo State command, CP Hilda Ibifuro-Harrison the Vice-Chancellor, Professor Adebisi Daramola explained that FUTA has disciplined students and a peaceful environment which propel the successful achievement of regular academic sessions. Professor Daramola who noted that no society is completely free from bad eggs emphasized that the University is on top of its game in preventing negative vices from creeping into and polluting the system.

Proposing a working partnership with the Commissioner, the Vice-Chancellor urged the command to be vigilant not only on issues relating to students as he promised maximum cooperation from FUTA but also on security issues affecting the state in general. He added that the state was at a critical time since elections are in the around the corner. He called on the command to make the protection of student rights among other things a priority during the period. The Vice-Chancellor who described the Commissioner as a pride to the force commended her attitude to work and her academic and professional laurels which he noted was a rare feat and a proof of hard work, dedication and diligence.

Earlier, the Commissioner who is also the command's 37th Commissioner of Police, commended the University's concerted effort at maintaining peace. She referred to the values instilled in the students as a plus to the prevention of deviant activities and the destruction of lives and properties, adding that the presence of the University would naturally have been a reason for restiveness but for the proactive action of the management and the discipline of overwhelming majority of the students.

Disclosing her mission, Ibifuro-Harrison noted that the Inspector General of Police, Solomon Arese's vision for the Force is for Officers to be upright and interact with the community to be able to gather intelligence that would be useful in keeping the community safe. She therefore sought partnership with the University Management, assuring an open door policy to achieve success. While presenting the Vice-Chancellor with a plaque, she promised the command's continued support and commitment to the maintenance of law and order within the University community.
