NAAT BEGINS SECRETARIAT PROJECT

Members of the National Association of Academic Technologists (NAAT) have been commended for maintaining an excellent working relationship with the Management and ensuring efficient service delivery. The Vice-Chancellor, Professor Adebisi Daramola gave the commendation while at the foundation laying ceremony of the office complex of the Association. Expressing his delight at the achievement, Daramola appreciated the Association for embarking on what he called a “laudable initiative”. He said their efforts were worthy of emulation.

Daramola assured NAAT that the Management will fully support the project and urged the executives to judiciously manage the limited resources available to them and be determined to go the extra mile to ensure the completion of the project within the record time.

Earlier in this address Chairman, NAAT FUTA Chapter, Comrade Alex Omoraka was profuse in his gratitude to the Vice-Chancellor and his management team for supporting the vision of the Association by approving the site of the building. He said the Association was taking a giant leap at laying the foundation and was determined to see the project through despite all the numerous challenges facing it.

Also speaking the Chairman, Building Committee NAAT, Dr. Joseph Faseun said NAAT FUTA decided to contribute her own quota to the beautification of FUTA campus landscape by embarking on the building project, adding that the Association’s building is a simple but highly functional one, designed by its members in the relevant departments.He also thanked the Directorate of Physical Planning for their unalloyed cooperation and professional input.
